Nationally the HPI is now within 7.6 percent of the peak value it reached in July 2006 of 268,000. Several states have already established new high-water marks for prices including Colorado and Texas which have done so nearly monthly for over a year. In April both New York and Tennessee also set new price peaks. Among the largest metropolitan areas Austin, Dallas, Houston, and San Antonio all hit new peaks along with Columbus, Ohio, Denver, Honolulu, Nashville, San Francisco and San Jose. Both Boston and Portland, Oregon are now less than 0.75 percent away from doing so as well.

Prices as measured by the HPI went up in every state from March to April, led by Washington with a 2.0 percent gain. Michigan and Colorado followed, each at 1.7 percent, Oregon at 1.6 percent, and both Minnesota and the District of Columbia at 1.3 percent. The smallest gains were in Arkansas (0.2 percent), Florida (0.4 percent), North Carolina and Virginia (each at 0.5 percent) and two states, Georgia and Missouri, at 0.6 percent.

Seattle led metro areas with 2.2 percent growth from March. Detroit, San Jose, and Ft Collins, Colorado all saw home prices rise by 2.0 percent.

Black Knight uses a repeat sales analysis of home prices based on its property and loan-level databases for transactions in more than 18,500 ZIP codes. It represents the price of non-distressed sales by taking into account price discounts of lender-owned property (REO) and short sales.

Service oriented, responsive, competitive rates and an in depth knowledge of todays mortgage market

After completing my degree in finance at the University of Connecticut, I started in the mortgage business right out of college in 2004. With 15+ years of experience and a primary objective of thoroughly explaining all available loan options to my clients with what is typically the largest investment in their lives, I strive to always make myself available. I constantly educate myself with respect to the mortgage industry and underwriting guidelines for FHA, VA, conventional and jumbo financing. I deliver on the expectations discussed up front and provide the service level my clients deserve from day one. I will remain in touch throughout the process and continue to follow up with you after closing. My goal is to wow you and turn you into clients for life. I want you to be so impressed that throughout and after the process you share my information with your friends, family, neighbors and co-workers who may value from my services.
