New HARP Kills Cut-Off Date, But You Have to Wait

While implementation is a ways down the road, both Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac (the GSEs) will offer new streamlined refinance options aimed at borrowers with high loan-to-value (LTV) ratios. The Federal Housing Finance Agency (FHFA), conservator of the GSEs, announced on Thursday that the new products will be available starting in October 2017. In the meantime, in order to provide a bridge for borrowers with high loan-to-value (LTV) ratios, FHFA has extended the availability of Home Affordable Refinance (HARP) loans through September 30, 2017 rather than terminating the program at the end of this year.

The FHFA announcement says the new GSE refinance offerings will provide much-needed liquidity for borrowers who are current on their mortgage but are unable to refinance through traditional programs because their LTV ratio exceeds the GSEs' maximum limits.

Criteria for Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac loans vary slightly but essentially the new refinancing products require that borrowers have not missed any mortgage payments for at least the previous six months and not more than one payment in the previous 12 months. At least 12 payments must have been made to Freddie or Fannie since the loan was acquired. Borrowers must also have a source of income and be refinancing a loan originated by the lender through whom they are refinancing.

In addition, the refinancing is contingent on the borrower benefiting from the new loan through at least one of a reduced monthly principal and interest payment, a lower interest rate, a shorter amortization term, or accessing a more stable product (i.e. moving to a fixed-rate mortgage from an adjustable one).

Both GSEs will permit mortgage insurance to be transferred to the new loan. If the old loan does not have insurance in place it will not be required for the refinancing as long as all other eligibility requirements are met. The loan allows streamlined documentation for employment, income, and assets.

FHFA says the new refinance offering is more targeted than HARP loans but like HARP, eligible borrowers do not need a minimum credit score and there is no maximum debt to income ratio. Appraisals may not always be required. Unlike HARP the loan is not limited by the origination date of the loan being refinanced and borrowers can use the product more than once. Active HARP loans cannot be refinanced into the new offerings.

"Providing a sustainable refinance opportunity for high LTV borrowers who have demonstrated responsibility by remaining current on their mortgage makes financial sense both for borrowers and for the Enterprises," said FHFA Director Melvin L. Watt. "This new offering will give borrowers the opportunity to refinance when rates are low, making their mortgages more affordable and thus reducing credit risk exposure for Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac."

Service oriented, responsive, competitive rates and an in depth knowledge of todays mortgage market

After completing my degree in finance at the University of Connecticut, I started in the mortgage business right out of college in 2004. With 15+ years of experience and a primary objective of thoroughly explaining all available loan options to my clients with what is typically the largest investment in their lives, I strive to always make myself available. I constantly educate myself with respect to the mortgage industry and underwriting guidelines for FHA, VA, conventional and jumbo financing. I deliver on the expectations discussed up front and provide the service level my clients deserve from day one. I will remain in touch throughout the process and continue to follow up with you after closing. My goal is to wow you and turn you into clients for life. I want you to be so impressed that throughout and after the process you share my information with your friends, family, neighbors and co-workers who may value from my services.
