Refi Demand Surges Amid Falling Rates - MBA

Average mortgage rates declined during the week ended February 5, in at least one case to the lowest level in nearly three years. In response there was a surge of mortgage applications reported by the Mortgage Bankers Association (MBA), principally from applications for refinancing.

According to results of the MBA Weekly Mortgage Applications Survey, Mortgage Applications as measured by its Market Composite Index, increased by 9.3 percent on a seasonally adjusted basis compared to the week ended January 29. The index rose 12 percent unadjusted. The Refinance Index jumped 16 percent while the share of all applications that were for refinancing was up to 61.2 percent from 59.2 percent the previous week.

The Purchase Index eked out a seasonally adjusted 0.2 percent gain from the previous week but was up 7 percent on an unadjusted basis. The index was 25 percent higher than during the same week in 2015.

FHA mortgage applications had a 12.3 percent share of the total compared to 12.9 percent the previous week while the VA share was unchanged at 11.1 percent. USDA applications had a 0.6 percent portion of the total, a tenth of a percentage point lower than the week before.

Both contract and effective rates fell across the board. The average contract interest rate for 30-year fixed-rate mortgages (FRM) with conforming loan balances ($417,000 or less) decreased to its lowest level since April 2015, 3.91 percent, from 3.97 percent with points unchanged at 0.41.

The average contract interest rate for 30-year FRM with jumbo loan balances over $417,000 fell 8 basis points to 3.76 percent, the lowest level since April 2013. Points increased to 0.30 from 0.26

Thirty-year FRM backed by the FHA had the lowest rates since 2015, averaging 3.72 percent, compared to 3.80 percent the previous week. Points decreased to 0.33 from 0.35.
