

Wesly Wilkerson
Branch Manager, MortgageRight
NMLS #862840 - Licensed in AL, FL & GA
216 S. 8th Street Opelika, AL 36801

Mobile: 334-718-0280
wesly@mortgageright.com
View My Website

Huge Rate Bounce After Stunningly Strong Jobs Report

There was a lot riding on Friday's big jobs report with a weak result likely to reinvigorate a move to long-term lows and a strong result likely to push rates higher. It ended up being VERY strong, thus pushing rates higher VERY quickly.

The following chart shows the day over day change in the 30yr fixed rate index from Mortgage News Daily:

The worst day in April was just a bit more abrupt, but it's fairly uncommon to see a jump of more than 0.2%. In outright terms, things look a bit better considering the ground covered since April.

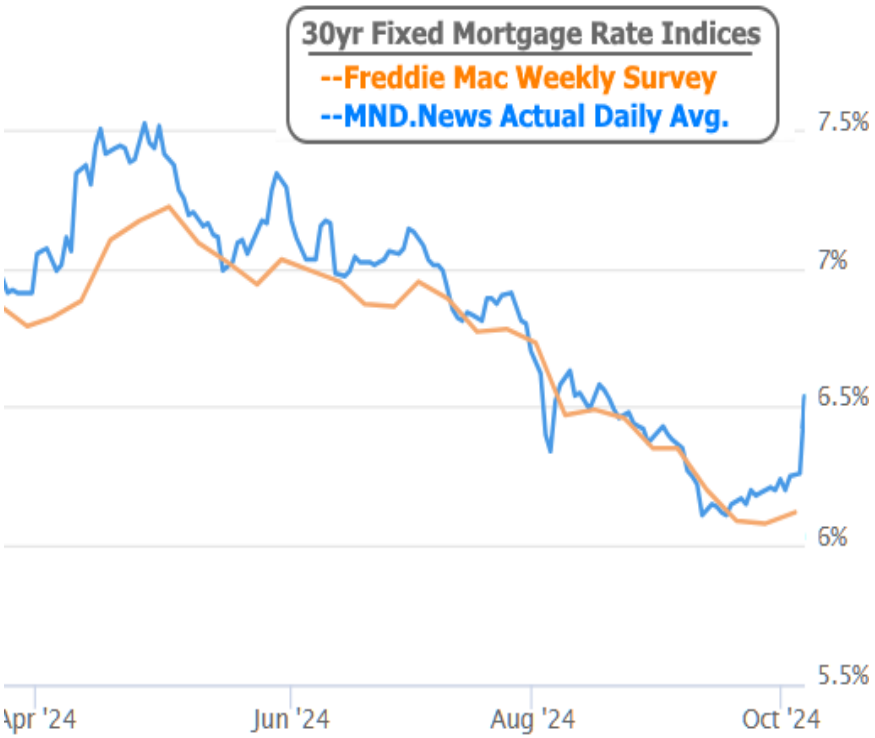

Recent Housing Data

		Value	Change
Mortgage Apps	Oct 28	192.6	-1.23%
Building Permits	Sep	1.4M	+0.43%
Housing Starts	Sep	1.22M	-4.24%
New Home Sales	Sep	676K	-1.17%
Pending Home Sales	Aug	71.2	0%
Existing Home Sales	Oct	3.99M	+0.25%
Builder Confidence	Oct	29	-9.38%

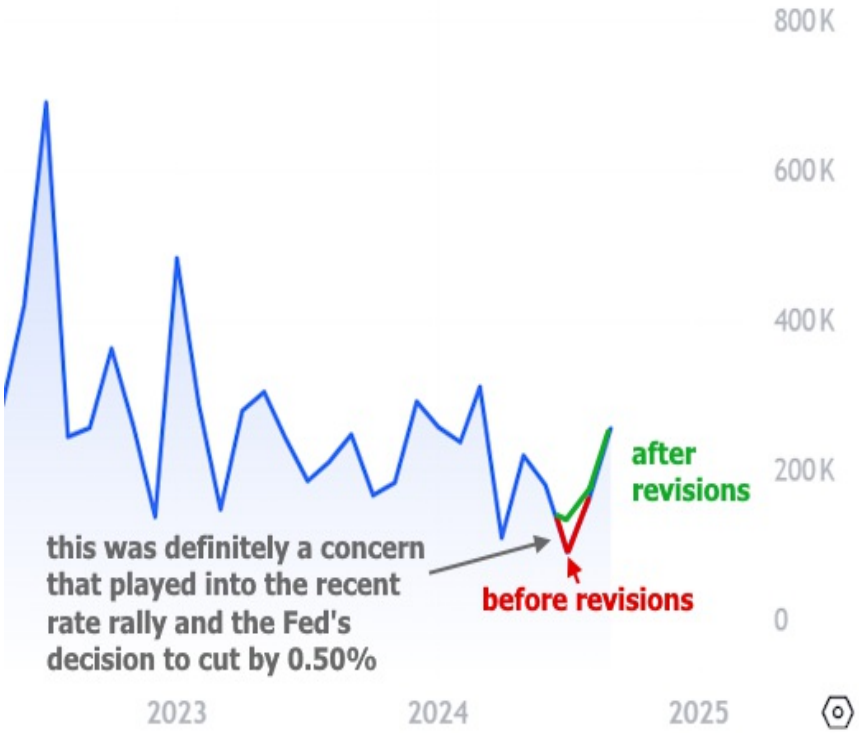

© 2026 MBS Live, LLC. - This newsletter is a service of MarketNewsletters.com.

The interest rates provided in this newsletter are national averages from independent data sources. Rate/APR terms may differ from those listed above based on the creditworthiness of the borrower. All information provided "as is" for informational purposes only, not intended for trading purposes or financial advice.

Read or subscribe to my newsletter online at: http://mortgagenewsletter.net/wesly-wilkerson

The most important headline in the jobs report is nonfarm payrolls (NFP), which is a count of new jobs created in the most recent month (September, in this case). Not only did September's 254k payrolls crush forecasts calling for 140k, but the past 2 months were revised higher as well. This is important because recent payroll data factored into the Fed's decision to cut rates by 0.50% two weeks ago. Whereas the trend looked to be trailing off at weaker and weaker levels, it now looks a bit more resilient (mainly because the low point from 2 months ago is now higher than the low point from earlier in the year).

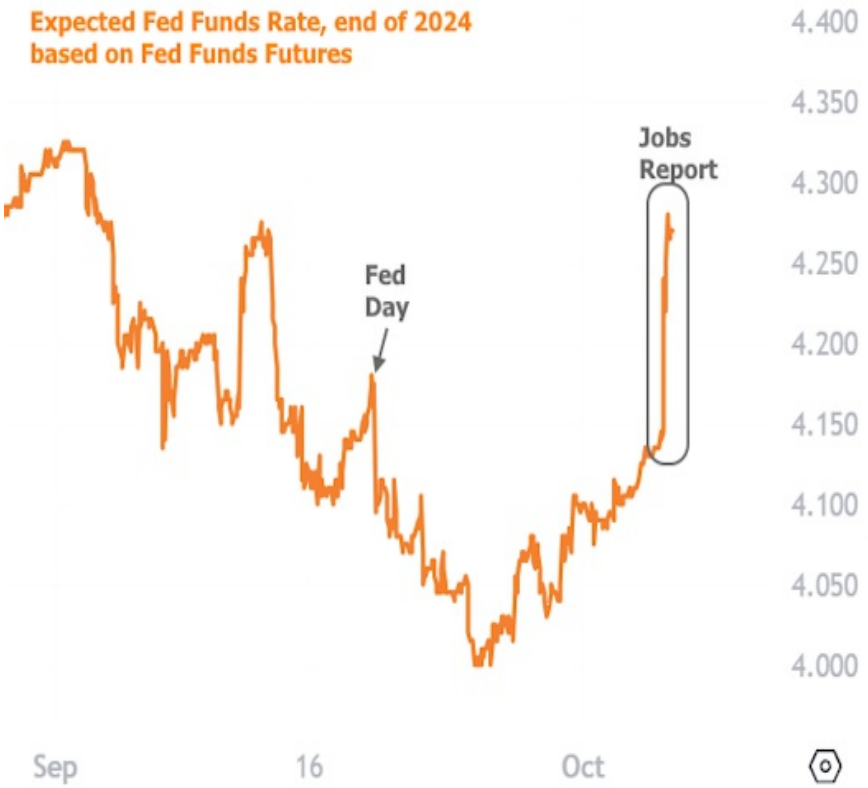

© 2026 MBS Live, LLC. - This newsletter is a service of MarketNewsletters.com.

The interest rates provided in this newsletter are national averages from independent data sources. Rate/APR terms may differ from those listed above based on the creditworthiness of the borrower. All information provided "as is" for informational purposes only, not intended for trading purposes or financial advice.

Read or subscribe to my newsletter online at: http://mortgagenewsletter.net/wesly-wilkerson

If the Fed had seen that "higher low" in NFP and if they'd known about today's 254k payroll count two weeks ago, would they have been as willing to cut rates by 0.50%? The market doesn't think so, and it quickly moved to adjust its expectations for where the Fed Funds Rate will end up this year.

Given all the upward momentum in rates seen over the past few weeks, as well as today's exclamation point, some market watchers are hoping that next week's inflation data can help put a ceiling over the current range. While we wouldn't rule out an impact from Thursday's Consumer Price Index, it's important to remember two things.

First, the market has largely moved on from obsessing over inflation in favor of obsessing over the labor market. We've seen smaller and smaller reactions to inflation-related data and it's basically being monitored only for signs of a bounce.

Second, inflation data can still hurt rates if it manages to show signs of a bounce. In that sense, it's an asymmetric risk where higher inflation would hurt rates more than lower inflation would help.

In addition to the data, next week brings a deluge of speeches from Fed officials to help the market make sense of how the jobs report may or may not change the calculus. If the past is any precedent, the Fed tends to remind markets not to get too wrapped up in a single economic report, but the counterpoint is that this particular single report brought fairly big revisions to the last few reports as well.

Longer term, the path of rates will depend on the economy. Job data may be the most important, but the sum of other reports can create momentum in either direction. As we've advised in the weeks leading up to and away from the Fed's rate cut, there are several past examples of mortgage rates moving higher for a time after a Fed rate cut! There's no way to know if this will continue to be one of those examples--only that is has been for the past few weeks.

Subscribe to my newsletter online at: http://mortgagenewsletter.net/wesly-wilkerson

Recent Economic Data

Event Importance:

© 2026 MBS Live, LLC. - This newsletter is a service of MarketNewsletters.com.

The interest rates provided in this newsletter are national averages from independent data sources. Rate/APR terms may differ from those listed above based on the creditworthiness of the borrower. All information provided "as is" for informational purposes only, not intended for trading purposes or financial advice.

Read or subscribe to my newsletter online at: http://mortgagenewsletter.net/wesly-wilkerson

US Housing Market Weekly

October 4, 2024

Date	Event	Actual	Forecast	Prior
Monday, Sep 30
9:45AM	Sep Chicago PMI	46.6	46.2	46.1
Tuesday, Oct 01
10:00AM	Aug USA JOLTS Job Openings	8.04M	7.655M	7.673M
10:00AM	Aug JOLTs Job Quits	3.084M		3.277M
10:00AM	Sep ISM Manufacturing PMI	47.2	47.5	47.2
10:00AM	Aug Construction spending (%)	-0.1%	0.1%	-0.3%
Wednesday, Oct 02
7:00AM	Sep/27 MBA Refi Index	1099.5		1132.9
7:00AM	Sep/27 MBA Purchase Index	149.3		148.2
8:15AM	Sep ADP jobs (k)	143K	120K	99K
Thursday, Oct 03
8:30AM	Sep/28 Jobless Claims (k)	225K	220K	218K
9:45AM	Sep S&P Global Services PMI	55.2	55.4	55.7
10:00AM	Sep ISM N-Mfg PMI	54.9	51.7	51.5
Friday, Oct 04
8:30AM	Sep Average earnings mm (%)	0.4%	0.3%	0.4%
8:30AM	Sep Non Farm Payrolls	254K	140K	142K
8:30AM	Sep Unemployment rate mm (%)	4.1%	4.2%	4.2%
Wednesday, Oct 09
2:00PM	FOMC Minutes
Thursday, Oct 10
8:30AM	Sep m/m CORE CPI (%)	0.3%	0.2%	0.3%
8:30AM	Oct/05 Jobless Claims (k)	258K	230K	225K
Friday, Oct 11
8:30AM	Sep Core Producer Prices MM (%)	0.2%	0.2%	0.3%
10:00AM	Oct Consumer Sentiment (ip)	68.9	70.8	70.1

No Stars = Insignificant
☆ Low
★ Moderate
★★ Important
★★ Very Important

© 2026 MBS Live, LLC. - This newsletter is a service of MarketNewsletters.com.

The interest rates provided in this newsletter are national averages from independent data sources. Rate/APR terms may differ from those listed above based on the creditworthiness of the borrower. All information provided "as is" for informational purposes only, not intended for trading purposes or financial advice.

Read or subscribe to my newsletter online at: http://mortgagenewsletter.net/wesly-wilkerson

Mortgages Done the Right Way!

My goal is to make your home financing experience as easy as possible. With over 12 years experience in home financing and nearly 10 years experience in the IT field, I always seek to streamline the home financing experience. Whether a purchase or refinance, I have the knowledge, wisdom, and experience to get the job done quickly, efficiently and as painless as possible. My experience in Conventional, FHA, VA and USDA lending as well as new construction, foreclosures, condos, debt consolidation, HELOCs, Non-QM Lending and owner financing means I am can navigate each loan scenario with expertise. I offer great customer service, patience with new home buyers and a "never give up" attitude coupled with out-of-the-box thinking to get the job done. Please feel free to contact me via phone, text or email to discuss your financing needs.

Wesly Wilkerson

© 2026 MBS Live, LLC. - This newsletter is a service of MarketNewsletters.com.

The interest rates provided in this newsletter are national averages from independent data sources. Rate/APR terms may differ from those listed above based on the creditworthiness of the borrower. All information provided "as is" for informational purposes only, not intended for trading purposes or financial advice.

Read or subscribe to my newsletter online at: http://mortgagenewsletter.net/wesly-wilkerson