

Wesly Wilkerson
Branch Manager, MortgageRight
NMLS #862840 - Licensed in AL, FL & GA
216 S. 8th Street Opelika, AL 36801

Mobile: 334-718-0280
wesly@mortgageright.com
View My Website

Biggest Weekly Jump For Rates In Quite a While. Will it Keep Going or Calm Down?

Whether we're talking about mortgage rates or a quintessential yard stick of the rate world like the 10yr Treasury yield, it was the roughest week in quite a while.

Nearly every corner of the market continues reacting in volatile fashion to last week's tariff announcement and the subsequent updates. Momentum toward higher rates took on a life of its own this week for laundry list of mostly esoteric reasons.

Meanwhile, the typical sources of market inspiration fell on deaf ears. Notably, both of this week's inflation reports were much lower than expected. That would typically be great news, but instead, rates kept on moving relentlessly higher.

When it comes to 10yr Treasuries, you would need to go back to 1981 to see a bigger jump.

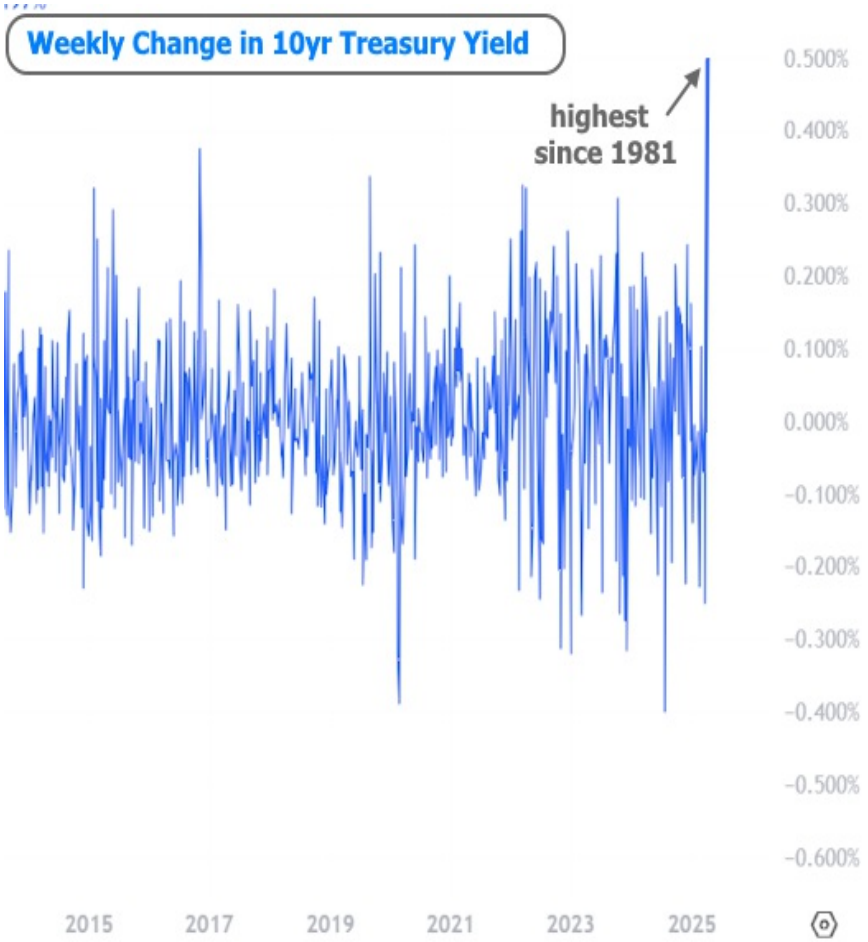

Recent Housing Data

		Value	Change
Mortgage Apps	Oct 28	192.6	-1.23%
Building Permits	Sep	1.4M	+0.43%
Housing Starts	Sep	1.22M	-4.24%
New Home Sales	Sep	676K	-1.17%
Pending Home Sales	Aug	71.2	0%
Existing Home Sales	Oct	3.99M	+0.25%
Builder Confidence	Oct	29	-9.38%

© 2026 MBS Live, LLC. - This newsletter is a service of MarketNewsletters.com.

The interest rates provided in this newsletter are national averages from independent data sources. Rate/APR terms may differ from those listed above based on the creditworthiness of the borrower. All information provided "as is" for informational purposes only, not intended for trading purposes or financial advice.

Read or subscribe to my newsletter online at: http://mortgagenewsletter.net/wesly-wilkerson

Is this alarming? Does it suggest that some massive shift is taking place that will re-write the global economic order?

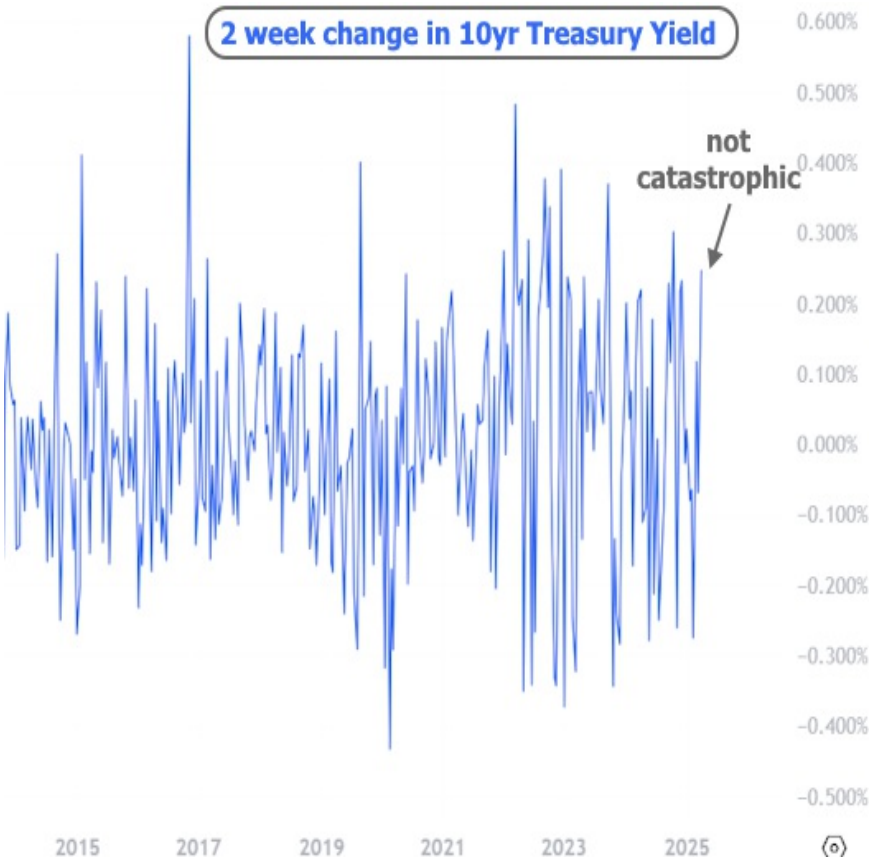

Some would say yes. Others would laugh. Many would be somewhere in between with quite a few qualifying ideas. No one would deny that the answer ultimately depends on things that have yet to happen.

One great way to find some perspective is to consider the 1 week chart of 10yr Treasury yields above against a 2 week chart below. In other words, it's the exact same data, but over a 2 week time frame instead of week-over-week. Spoiler alert: it's not ideal, but definitely not as alarming as the first chart.

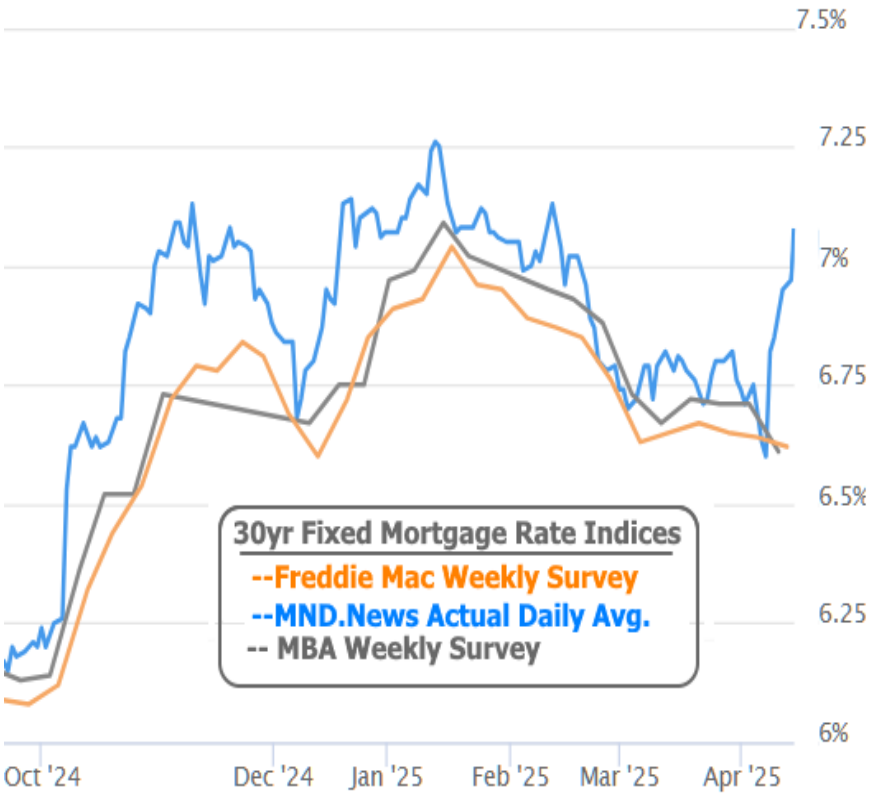

© 2026 MBS Live, LLC. - This newsletter is a service of MarketNewsletters.com.

The interest rates provided in this newsletter are national averages from independent data sources. Rate/APR terms may differ from those listed above based on the creditworthiness of the borrower. All information provided "as is" for informational purposes only, not intended for trading purposes or financial advice.

Read or subscribe to my newsletter online at: http://mortgagenewsletter.net/wesly-wilkerson

With that in mind, there's a lot riding on the coming week and a half to flesh out the bigger picture. In the meantime, mortgage rates are definitely elevated--much more so than the typical news article has yet conveyed.

© 2026 MBS Live, LLC. - This newsletter is a service of MarketNewsletters.com.

The interest rates provided in this newsletter are national averages from independent data sources. Rate/APR terms may differ from those listed above based on the creditworthiness of the borrower. All information provided "as is" for informational purposes only, not intended for trading purposes or financial advice.

Read or subscribe to my newsletter online at: http://mortgagenewsletter.net/wesly-wilkerson

In the chart above, it's normal for the blue line to generally operate above the other two. The important observation is the extent to which big moves in the blue line (actual daily average rates) lead subsequent moves in the other lines (surveys that have a reporting lag). Unfortunately, many news outlets report on the weekly surveys as if those rates are still available. Instead, they're just a look back to what was available last week.

Here too, there's perspective. After all, mortgage rates were noticeably higher just a few months ago. Moreover, we've certainly seen a few weeks with a 0.50% jump over the past few years. So the question remains: will the coming weeks add insult to injury, or will they help mellow out the bigger picture message? The answer can't be known today. The best bet is to understand the potential for additional volatility and be prepared to react accordingly.

Subscribe to my newsletter online at: http://mortgagenewsletter.net/wesly-wilkerson

Recent Economic Data

Date	Event	Actual	Forecast	Prior
Wednesday, Apr 09
7:00AM	Apr/04 MBA Purchase Index	172.7		158.2
7:00AM	Apr/04 MBA Refi Index	961.4		710.4
2:00PM	FOMC Minutes
Thursday, Apr 10
8:30AM	Mar y/y Headline CPI (%)	2.4%	2.6%	2.8%
8:30AM	Mar m/m Headline CPI (%)	-0.1%	0.1%	0.2%
8:30AM	Mar y/y CORE CPI (%)	2.8%	3%	3.1%
8:30AM	Mar m/m CORE CPI (%)	0.1%	0.3%	0.2%
8:30AM	Apr/05 Jobless Claims (k)	223K	223K	219K
Friday, Apr 11
8:30AM	Mar Core Producer Prices YY (%)	3.3%	3.6%	3.4%
8:30AM	Mar Core Producer Prices MM (%)	-0.1%	0.3%	-0.1%
8:30AM	Mar Producer Prices (%)	-0.4%	0.2%	0%
10:00AM	Apr Sentiment: 1y Inflation (%)	6.7%		5%
10:00AM	Apr Sentiment: 5y Inflation (%)	4.4%		4.1%
10:00AM	Apr Consumer Sentiment (ip)	50.8	54.5	57.0
Monday, Apr 14
11:00AM	Mar Consumer Inflation Expectations	3.6%		3.1%
Tuesday, Apr 15
8:30AM	Apr NY Fed Manufacturing	-8.10	-14.5	-20.00
Wednesday, Apr 16
8:30AM	Mar Retail Sales Control Group MoM	0.4%	0.6%	1%
8:30AM	Mar Retail Sales (%)	1.4%	1.3%	0.2%
9:15AM	Mar Industrial Production (%)	-0.3%	-0.2%	0.7%
10:00AM	Apr NAHB housing market indx	40	37	39
Thursday, Apr 17

Event Importance:

No Stars = Insignificant
☆ Low
★ Moderate
★★ Important
★★ Very Important

© 2026 MBS Live, LLC. - This newsletter is a service of MarketNewsletters.com.

The interest rates provided in this newsletter are national averages from independent data sources. Rate/APR terms may differ from those listed above based on the creditworthiness of the borrower. All information provided "as is" for informational purposes only, not intended for trading purposes or financial advice.

Read or subscribe to my newsletter online at: http://mortgagenewsletter.net/wesly-wilkerson

Date	Event	Actual	Forecast	Prior
8:30AM	Apr/12 Jobless Claims (k)	215K	225K	223K
8:30AM	Mar Building Permits (ml)	1.482M	1.45M	1.459M
8:30AM	Mar Housing starts number mm (ml)	1.324M	1.42M	1.501M
8:30AM	Apr Philly Fed Business Index	-26.4	2	12.5
2:00PM	Good Friday Eve
Friday, Apr 18
12:00AM	Good Friday

Mortgages Done the Right Way!

My goal is to make your home financing experience as easy as possible. With over 12 years experience in home financing and nearly 10 years experience in the IT field, I always seek to streamline the home financing experience. Whether a purchase or refinance, I have the knowledge, wisdom, and experience to get the job done quickly, efficiently and as painless as possible. My experience in Conventional, FHA, VA and USDA lending as well as new construction, foreclosures, condos, debt consolidation, HELOCs, Non-QM Lending and owner financing means I am can navigate each loan scenario with expertise. I offer great customer service, patience with new home buyers and a "never give up" attitude coupled with out-of-the-box thinking to get the job done. Please feel free to contact me via phone, text or email to discuss your financing needs.

Wesly Wilkerson

© 2026 MBS Live, LLC. - This newsletter is a service of MarketNewsletters.com.

The interest rates provided in this newsletter are national averages from independent data sources. Rate/APR terms may differ from those listed above based on the creditworthiness of the borrower. All information provided "as is" for informational purposes only, not intended for trading purposes or financial advice.

Read or subscribe to my newsletter online at: http://mortgagenewsletter.net/wesly-wilkerson